

THE AGE OF SOPHISTRY

Last May 3rd, this column criticized a television program put on by the League of Women Voters, a cigaret company and the pro-Eisenhower Life Magazine because it pretended to be a debate and turned out to be an ingenious sales talk for the brand of internationalism which the Life-Time editors have endorsed.

We did so braced for a storm, heads bowed against the expected deluge of protests from the League.

Strangely enough, only one has been received. Since it represents a point of view on public affairs extremely widely held in the America of this generation, it is worth quoting at some length:

"The program was in no way meant to be a debate, but a candidate's forum. The concept back of the program was not a devious and subtle plan to dress up internationalism, but an attempt to clarify the major issues of the election.

"The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization with a splendid record of stimulating interest, clarifying the issues, and encouraging independent thinking. That the League 'backs' no candidate but attempts to present all views fairly is well-known. That you overlook this fact is regrettable to say the least.

"You mention the 'absent Senator Taft' and I feel that in all fairness you should report that Senator Taft was urged to attend, but was unable to because of a previous speaking engagement. That Senator Kefauver also had a previous engagement but felt the occasion important enough to merit changing his plans should also be noted.

"Undoubtedly, Mr. Taft overlooked the tremendous possibilities offered to present his views to a television audience far in the millions, but it seems incredible that a candidate as 'politically astute' as Mr. Taft could ignore the opportunity unless he is not sure of the reaction of the American Citizen to his isolationist theories.

Since we don't feel that the communication is one of which the signer will have reason to be proud, on second reading, and since we wish to discuss it plainly without personal considerations being raised, we will leave off the name of the Fallsington matron who sent it.

The letter itself is typical of the times we live in. It represents the bane of our ebbing efforts at self-government. Letters similar to this are flowing by the thousands across the desks of those who struggle with public problems in Congress, and into the hands of all our principal public officials.

Only one kind thing can be said, in fairness and justice, commendatory of such letters—they do show a good intention, a well-disposed if hopelessly inept desire to be helpful. But what good intentions are the paving material for, is only too well known.

There is also only one defense ever offered for such a letter, once it is brought out that those who write them almost invariably are merely echoing propaganda passed along to them by others, and have neither examined the facts nor used logic in analyzing them.

That defense is that "a person has a right to her own opinion, hasn't she?" That's one for the Divinity to answer—whether anyone has a right to an opinion based, not on information, but on prejudice, emotionalism and hand-fed dogmas. There are those in life, still, who are interested in facts and truth, and who think that the title to an opinion, like some forms of real estate, can be made valid only by adverse possession.

Frankly we have never thought much of anyone's opinions which start out by calling someone else names, or impugn their motives. Calling Senator Taft or anyone else an "isolationist" strikes us as a singularly ineffective way to start out understanding the complexities of foreign aid, with its ramified background leading back to Wilkie's futile "one world" theories, and Vandenberg's pseudo "bipartisanship."

Likewise, we see no excuse for the invidious suggestion that Senator Taft stayed away from the program because he "is not sure of the reaction of the American citizen" to his views on foreign affairs.

Common courtesy, it seems to us, might have suggested to the letter-writer that she include among the possibilities the

KEFAUVER PROVES TO BE A NON-STOP DOORBELL RINGER

In Handshakes Announces "I Am Running for The Presidency"

HAS SECRET WEAPON

This is His Pretty and Extremely Able Wife, Nancy

One incentive for his campaign for the Presidency which Sen. Estes Kefauver normally doesn't talk about is the fact that his six-year-old son thinks the White House would be a swell place to run a toy electric train, as disclosed in this fifth article in a series of close-ups of the leading candidates for President.

ARTICLE FIVE

By Inez Robb

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent).

Other Presidential candidates in this year of grace may be handsome, richer or more experienced than Sen. Estes Kefauver (D) Tenn.

But none of them can hold a candle to the Tennessee flash as a self-winding, non-stop doorbell ringer and handshaker. Thousands of astounded voters from Maine's icy mountains to Florida's coral strand have had their respective hands shaken by a stranger, a tall, thin, earnest man, with the simple announcement "I am Estes Kefauver. I am running for the Presidency."

Sometimes, as in northern New Hampshire, where folks have to struggle along without television and consequently do not recognize the greatest TV star the United States Senate has produced, Kefauver's sudden appearance and announcement that he is running for the Presidency have been met with skepticism.

"President of what?" asked the spokesman of a small group of New Englanders gathered at a crossroad store.

"Of the United States," the Senator replied.

"Do tell!" the spokesman exclaimed. "What ye doin' hereabouts?"

In discussing the political advantages of handshaking, the lanky Senator says "It's wonderful to see the cordiality of the people. They seem to appreciate my discussing the issues with them. I think it does me an awful lot of good."

Such tactics, plus his secret weapon, may win him the nomination yet if he survives the physical ordeal. His "secret weapon," so tagged by Sen. Richard Russell (D) Ga., who also is a candidate for the democratic nomination, is his extremely pretty, extremely

Dr. Wm. Orick, Solebury School Headmaster, Speaks

Dr. William Orick, headmaster of Solebury School addressed Bristol Rotary Club, last evening, in regard to that institution of learning.

The school is non-denominational, embraces both boys and girls, and has at present an enrollment of 125 pupils in six grades. About half of the students are from Pennsylvania, the remainder from other states, and includes two Mohammedans from Arabia.

The school specializes in personalized education, teaches tolerance, and the discrimination between good and evil.

It was started 27 years ago by four teachers who were dissatisfied with the then prevailing standards, as a cooperative enterprise. The campuses of the boys and girls are 1½ miles apart.

Dr. Conan, of Harvard University, called private schools a dividing influence, a statement claimed "without rhyme or reason, especially in view that private schools want no tax support, but wish to remain independent."

They are subject to the same state supervision as public schools, it was stated.

Installation of Oil Burner is Under Way

The session was presided over by Jay Hook; prayer was offered by the Rev. Samuel Gaskell, pastor. Horace Booz read the secretary's report and George Baker gave the financial report.

Announcement was made that work had been started to install an oil burning heating system in the men's Bible class building. Donations will be received, and the balance will be financed by the trustee and Sunday School treasurers.

Mothers, Daughters Hear Story "Far Above Rubies"

Tribute to "mother" was paid Wednesday evening on the occasion of the annual mother-daughter banquet in Bristol Presbyterian Church. A group of 168 gathered about the tables which were festive with bouquets of spring blossoms. Carole Jane Wright was requested to ask the blessing, and serving as toastmistress was Mrs. John F. Wright.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Ruth Parsons Strahan, Moorestown, N. J., presented as a monologue the story of three women in the Bible as portrayed in the book "Far Above Rubies."

Vocalist for the occasion was Miss Karlene Hartel, Morrisville, and the two piano selections were by Miss Rae Frances Bunting, Morrisville.

Gifts were presented to the oldest and youngest grandmothers, and those in other categories.

Serving as waiters at the catered baked ham dinner were members of the men's Bible class.

JUDGE SAYS MAN TOO 'IMMATURE' TO DRIVE

Severely Reprimands Warren S. Pye; Is Fined, Given Sentence

INTOXICATION CASES

DOYLESTOWN, May 16—A number of cases were before Bucks County court Tuesday. They included drunken driver cases; and a Bristol township resident was sentenced to pay costs, a $50 fine, and serve not more than 18 months in jail, and declared too immature to handle an automobile.

Warren S. Pye, 21, Bath rd., Bristol twp., a used car salesman, who was banded as being immature to handle so deadly a weapon as an automobile, by Judge Edward G. Biester, was sentenced to pay the costs, pay a $50 fine and serve not more than 18 months in jail.

Pye, who was arrested March 21 by Chief of Police Ernest Maret, Hulterville, has seven motor code arrests to his discredit.

Bristol Chief of Police Linford Jones, who was asked by Judge Biester what he knew of the defendant's record, remarked that he and Chief of Police Joseph O. Seader, Bristol twp., pursued the defendant in a police car traveling more than 60 miles an hour.

The defendant, who admitted driving around with the spotlight pointed up in the air, or a cut-out wide open, said: "I like to hear the noise." "You sound positively childish and immature," said Judge Biester. He quit school in the ninth grade to go to work.

Judge Biester told the defendant that he may apply for a parole at the expiration of 30 days. He broke into tears as he was led away to prison by a court attendant.

The defendant pleaded guilty to operating a motor vehicle after operating privilege had been suspended and revoked.

He was described as being the type of motorist who "thinks the highways are made for them and no one else has a right to drive on them," by Judge Biester, who remarked: "It is people like you who cause everyone to fear for their lives when out driving."

Pye, who bragged to the Court

BUCKS COUNTY'S DEPUTY SHERIFF LANG TELEGRAPHS GOV. FINE, ASKING FOR STATE POLICE AT LEVITTOWN AT ONCE

LEVITTOWN, May 16—Swift action took place this morning at the strikebound 16,000 housing project of William Levitt and Sons, Inc. Part of the project is located in Bristol township and part in Tullytown borough. Deputy Sheriff William Lang, of Bucks County, telegraphed Governor John S. Fine requesting assistance of State Police at once.

Trouble arose at the project when a number of construction employees entered the project and started working before the arrival of pickets. Police had to rescue some of the workers and escort them through the picket line.

Telegram sent to Governor Fine by Lang reads as follows: "Levitt and Sons, Inc. located in Bristol Township and Tullytown Borough is involved in a labor strike to force employees to join the union. Approximately 500 have created violence. We request the assistance of State Police at once to enforce order. An injunction has been issued by the courts of Bucks County to limit five pickets to each entrance. We have mass picketing and violence. Harry H. Ross, Sheriff of Bucks County, is incapacitated and William B. Lang, chief Deputy Sheriff is in charge."

"WILLIAM B. LANG, 'Deputy Sheriff'." Construction workers were ordered off the job by contractors at 9:30 this morning and have been told to report back to the job at 8:30 Monday morning.

Violence flared anew as over 100 pickets ignored the restraining order issued by the Bucks County Court against mass picketing. The pickets crowded along the Oxford Valley-Tullytown road, near the large concrete mixer, which was put into operation. Huge rocks and stones were hurled at the mixer.

State Police in three cars cruised along the highways. Deputy Sheriff William Lang, of Bucks County, along with Bristol township police, Tullytown Borough police and special police, patrolled the area.

Workers employed on the Levittown project assembled in front of the exhibition center, waiting to see whether or not they would be ordered back to work after six days of enforced idleness. There were large numbers of automobiles of workers, as well as strikers parked along both sides of highways in the area. Some parked their cars at a distance as a protection against damage.

Harold Kalish, attorney for Levitt and Sons, says that it is expected that work on the building project will be resumed today. At nine o'clock operation of the concrete mixer ceased.

One man was taken into police custody and was lodged in the Bristol Police Headquarters by Tullytown chief-of-police, John Kratz.

APPREHEND A PHILA. PAROLEE IN BENSALEM

Chief Rentz Finds John H. Robinson Under Pile of Brush at 2.05 A. M.

COMPLAINTS MADE

BRIDGEWATER, May 16—A Philadelphia man, released last September on a five year parole on charges of assault and battery and attempt to rape, was apprehended at 1:50 a. m. Tuesday by Chief of Police, George H. Rentz, Bensalem township.

John H. Robinson, 48, 1845 N. Marine street, Philadelphia, police said, gained entrance to the house of William F. Abel, Bristol Pike and Bridgewater road, here, after breaking a window screen early Tuesday morning. Mrs. Abel telephoned Chief Rentz there was a prowler on the second floor in her house.

Shortly afterwards, while Chief Rentz was investigating the Abel house, he received a second telephone call that a prowler was attempting to get into the window at the home of Howard Price, about four doors away.

The prowler, it is stated, then ran across the street, to the property of Robert W. Scott.

Chief Rentz, who continued the investigation, noticed dogs barking and began a search of some underbrush near a woodpile.

Chief Rentz apprehended Rob-

NUMBERS RUNNER IS FINED AND SENTENCED

Santo Anzalone, 29, Bristol, Tells of Making One Trip Daily to Trenton

HE PLEADS GUILTY

DOYLESTOWN, May 16—A Bristol man, formerly a bartender at Trenton, N. J., pleaded guilty to two counts in Bucks County court this week. Santo Anzalone, 29, of Farragut avenue, Bristol, testified that he made one trip daily between Bristol and Trenton as a numbers runner for $65 a week.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite sentenced him to pay $500 fine and costs of prosecution, and to serve not less than one nor more than 11 months in the county prison.

Pleading guilty to two counts, unlawful possession of numbers tickets and unlawful management of a lottery, the defendant, who never had been in any trouble, testified he knew only the first names of the men to whom he returned the money or who paid him.

Trooper Andrew J. Kutney, of the Langhorne sub-station of the Penna. State Police, arrested Anzalone, March 27, when his car was halted and the defendant searched. The sum of $127.43 was taken from his pants pocket and $124, which was in his wallet, was his own money, state police said.

District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, in keeping with the policy of the district attorney's office with reference to defendants implicated in gambling offenses, requested a jail sentence.

Four counts, unlawful possession of numbers tickets, establishing gambling devices, setting up

COMMISSIONERS HAVE BUSY SESSION

HOLD SPEC'L SESSIONS

EDGELEY, May 15—The Bristol Township Commissioners held a regular May meeting Wednesday evening at the Edgely Hall at 8 p. m. The last regular meeting of the Commissioners was held April 9th.

In the period between the regular meetings, the Commissioners held at least six special meetings, during which an agreement with Levitt concerning sewer and water was made, a planning commission was formed, a tractor was purchased, the building code was discussed, an agreement to provide Bristol Township Police for Levittown at Levitt's expense was completed, and approval of the proposed alterations of Township lines was granted. All of this business was transacted at meetings that were unannounced and consequently not reported in the press.

A bid of $2,467.50 for the complete installation of traffic lights on Cedar ave., at Rt. 13 and at State rd., was accepted. The bidder was George C. Bailey and Sons. John Lilinski of Tullytown was awarded the old Township equipment with a bid of $535. Edward Crawford was the other bidder at $505.

Albert Rogers, president of the Bristol Township Civic Association, read to the Commissioners a few letters that the Association had sent to them. These letters dealt with safety and health problems that needed attention. The commissioners replied that the matters were being remedied.

Watson Store is Sold To Peter Amadio, Jr.

After being in the same family for three generations, Watson's Cut Rate store has been sold to Peter Amadio, Jr., who will operate it once again as a registered pharmacy. The business, known for years as Watson's Drug Store, was established in 1893 by Maurice Watson, a graduate of Phila. College of Pharmacy, who came here from Bordentown, N. J. Mr. Watson known as "Pete", operated the business at 595 Bath st. until 1917, when poor health necessitated his retirement. His son, John R. Watson, who was also a graduate of P. C. P., then took over operation of the business. He expanded the store to its present size by incorporating the property at 597 Bath street. Since the death of John Watson in 1942, the business has been operated first by his wife, Lillian K. Watson, and recently by his daughter, Ruth A. Watson.

Mr. Amadio, a native of Bristol, graduated from Bristol high school. He graduated from Temple University College of Pharmacy, studied in the Liberal Arts College there, also did graduate work in pharmacology at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He worked as a registered pharmacist for the past three years in prescription stores in the Phila. area, and was in complete charge of the pharmacy at Mason General Hospital, N. Y., for 16 months. The latter experience occurred while he served in the U. S. Army.

Mr. Amadio and his wife and son will reside on the premises.

AWARD BENSALEM TEACHERS SALARY INCREASE OF $400

Budget Adopted; Proposal Made to Stagger the H. S. Schedule Next Term

GRADUATION, JUNE 10

Board Adopts A Resolution Providing $5 Tax Monthly On Trailers

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 16—In adopting the budget for the coming year, Bensalem township school directors on Wed. evening increased salaries of teachers in the district $400 per year. Proposal was made at the meeting that a staggered schedule be adopted for the coming term; three teachers were elected, and one resignation accepted. All members of the board were present.

The report of superintendent of schools William Shellenberger, was concerned with school plant and equipment. He reported that the fence work on the ground adjacent to the high school has been completed, and the ground plowed, graded and seeded. He also informed that the Andalusia addition is now substantially completed, with a few minor adjustments to be made.

A committee of parents from Trevoise P. T. A. requested a meeting with the director to discuss unsatisfactory condition of the Trevoise play-yard. The board members will meet at the Trevoise school ground with parents, Saturday, at 10 a. m.

Conference held with representatives of the Bell Telephone Co., regarding trees in front of Andalusia school resulted with the company agreeing to remove three trees which are in dangerous condition. The trees, it was stated, lean on company's cable. Report was also made that organization of Andalusia school has been completed following transfer of pupils since enlargement of the school. A maximum load is now being handled there, Mr. Shellenberger reported.

Three teachers were elected for elementary grades, these being the Misses Gertrude Huff, Jane Walter and Ann Nelson.

A proposed organization of the high school for next term was explained by the high school principal, Russell Struble. This includes a staggered schedule, with the school day beginning at 8:05 for junior high school pupils, and running to 4:45 for senior high pupils. The board did not adopt the proposal, but will meet briefly Tuesday evening to give it further consideration.

The tentative school calendar for next term was adopted.

On May 23rd the annual high school spring concert will be given. An innovation this year will be an exhibit of pupil's work in home economics, industrial arts, ceramics and other arts. There will also be work from a few school departments. Booths for such will be arranged in the corridors.

In cooperation with Bristol borough school district, Bensalem will participate in a concert which will present the combined high school and adult choirs in a concert at the Grand Theatre, Bristol, June 12th.

The meeting marked final adoption of the budget, and made provision for $400 increase in salary for all teachers.

Speaker listed for commencement exercises June 16th is Dr. Millard M. Gladfield, provost at Temple University, Philadelphia.

A delegation from trailer camps in the township discussed problems, and voiced objection to the $5 per month tax on trailers. The board adopted resolution providing for the $5 per month tax on such.

Resignation of Miss Ellen Hart as first grade teacher at Cornwells was accepted.

NOTHING TO DO?

"What shall I do when there's nothing to do?" That has been the plaintive query of many a person forced by age or illness to retire from active pursuits. It is a question that demands an answer—best of all by the individual concerned if he can find his own.

In Education Hall at the Museum of Natural History in New York there are on display the creative efforts of 1,600 New York men and women ranging in ages from 60 to 102 in the sixth annual Hobby Show for Older Persons under the auspices of the Welfare and Health Council.
The most remarkable feature of the show is that the inventiveness and skills displayed by many of the exhibitors were entirely latent when idleness overtook them.

Bob Stollack—he says he had 300 fights and defeated two champions—formerly made his living with his fists, doubled up. Although he suffered a stroke, he found himself capable of hand-tooled copper sculpture. One of his exhibits is The Last Supper.
Then there is Charlie Miller, who says he is the last survivor of the pony express riders. At 102 he is not "through." His contribution is a Wild West scene in wood.
Between them is a wide range of exhibits in scores of fields.

To any retired person almost at wit's end to find some means of occupation, there could scarcely fail to be inspiration in this hobby show. One of the worst fates that can befall an individual is to be reconciled to doing nothing. Better, of course, than pursuing any hobby is continuous regular employment by those mentally capable and willing to work. To those for whom this is no longer possible, a hobby affords rescue from depressing idleness.

HOW'S THE FISHING?

New York state's Commerce Department has a red face and hot from sunburn. It stands under a gleeful accusation from New Hampshire of passing off a New Hampshire trout stream as a New York vacation asset.

Compared with New Hampshire, New York is, of course, a giant state in geographic extent, which implies that it is not lacking in scenic varieties. New York has the Catskill and Adirondack Mountains, where trout streams are plentiful. For what purpose, then, did New York hijack — if it did—a trout stream near New Hampshire's White Mountains?

The New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission, with a dead pan expression, gives forth as follows:

"In our promotional literature, we wouldn't print a photograph of Rockefeller Plaza, or Broadway, or Wall Street, and give the impression it was Success, N. H."

In this battle of vacation promotion, one question isn't mentioned at all: How good is the fishing? What the the best flies to use? On this last point, argument would soon become esoteric, heated and could last all summer.

Kefauver Proves To Be A Non-Stop Doorbell Ringer

able wife Nancy, a red head who dazes men, women and children. "If I were running with Mrs. Kefauver, I'd be glad to accept second place on the ticket," Sen. Russell said recently. Even the Republicans find Nancy irresistible. Rep. Clarence Brown (R) Ohio, who is helping steer the Taft campaign, once said, "I am almost convinced I should support Kefauver, Nancy, that is."

The beauteous Nancy, born in Scotland, is the soul of tact. In the deep south, when her husband invades barbershops to shake hands alike with the latherer and lathered, Nancy goes right along, too, because the men usually say "Come on in, honey, and get acquainted."

But when she campaigned with the Senator in New England in bitter cold of last winter, she waited outside man's last stronghold the tontorial parlor. She figured New England men might resent a feminine invasion.

The Senator himself was delighted by one these New England women to whom he introduced himself. "Who's running against you?" she asked, "Meibner if you don't have opposition, I vote for you."

The Tennessee Senator, who rose to fame as the chairman of the former Senate Crime Investigating Committee, takes Nancy along on barn-storming tours as often as he can persuade her to leave the four little Kefauvers—Linda, 10, David, 6, Diane, 4 and Gail, 18 months.

Linda and David came home from school considerably upset by their playmates' insistence that the Kefauvers were "going to have to move into the White House." David was finally mollified when told how large the executive mansion is.

A pair of soft bedroom slippers is as much a part of the presidential campaign kit of Sen. Kefauver as his famed trade-mark, his coonskin cap.

The moment the Senator boards a plane, he kicks off his shoes, puts on the bedroom slippers and makes himself comfortable. Then he starts dictating to his secretary, Don Vaughn. Whether in plane, train or auto, Kefauver makes it a policy to dictate letters to the persons he has contacted in the last town visited. He takes no chance on "Out of sight, out of mind."

"When I get tired of dictating or reading," he says, "I put black blinders on my eyes and go to sleep. I am blessed that I can sleep anywhere."

The Senator is no slug-a-bed. He is always on the road by 8 a. m. whether in Washington or on tour. He fortifies himself with a hearty breakfast, normally orange juice, toast, scrambled eggs and sausage and coffee. Sometimes he switches to hot cakes or waffles. On his six foot three inch frame, they look good. Overweight is no problem with him—yet.

Lunch is where he finds it when he is barnstorming. If he is driving, he will pull up at a diner or hot-dog wagon and buy a snack of hamburgers to eat in the car.

Dinner, too, is often catch-as-catch-can. Like all political aspirants, he is case-hardened to chicken, the banquet perennial. But he prefers a shrimp cocktail, a slab of roast beef and occasionally when the budget permits, a thick steak.

Since he started running for the Presidency Kefauver has received coon skin caps from admirers all over the nation. Live gifts have arrived, too, including a turkey dinner on the hoof. The Kefauver children were so entranced with the gobble that they put a leash on it and now no one has the heart to kill the pet.

The Senator's original coonskin cap, one of the weapons with which he beat the powerful Crump machine in Tennessee to win his Senatorial seat, is now in the trophy room of the University of Michigan. He always carries two or three coonskin caps with him on his journeys and occasionally sends one to a deserving voter.

He sent a cap to a nine-year-old boy whose mother subsequently wrote the Senator that her son refused to take the cap off even to bathe.

One of Kefauver's more recent acquisitions is a deerskin cap from a group of New England admirers. This head piece, the group wrote, would enable him to run faster.

It remains to be seen whether the coonskin cap can boost Kefauver into the Presidency over the opposition of the national democratic machine as it catapulted him into the Senate over the opposition of the Crump machine. Crime may not pay, but Sen.

Kefauver's election to the White House would certainly be a powerful argument that investigation of it does!

19th Mother-Daughter Dinner Much Enjoyed

The 19th mother-daughter banquet of Mrs. William Mohre's Sunday School class, Bristol Methodist Church was held Monday evening at Carlslake's dining room, Mount Holly, N. J. The room was decorated with dogwood, and the table centerpieces were bouquets of red tulips. The programs and place cards were in block-print Penna. Dutch design. Favors were shadow frame pictures which were hand-painted by Mrs. George Hood in colors to blend with the women's kitchens, portraying Penna Dutch symbols.

The menu consisted of: Tomato juice, vegetable soup, salad, cottage cheese, preserves, roast turkey with filling (or combination seafood), vegetables, sherbet, rolls, butter, coffee, chocolate sundae. Music was enjoyed during the banquet.

Mrs. Joseph Korz, president, welcomed the guests. The blessing was asked by Mrs. Edwin Ballinger. Each past president spoke on incidents during her term of office or read the newspaper clipping about the banquet in the year of her term.

The banquet date was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hood, and the group surprised her with a cake and a handkerchief shower.

A play, entitled "Mushrooms Coming Up," was presented with the following cast: Mrs. Korz, Miss Alice Smith, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mrs. Ballinger, Mrs. Melvin Houser, and Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Other guests included: Mrs. William Mohre, Mrs. Russell Booz, Mrs. Frank Mershon, Mrs. J. S. Lynn, Mrs. John Simons, Mrs. Roy Tracy, Mrs. Amanda Fischer, Mrs. William Milnor, Mrs. William Doan, Mrs. Norman Rapp, Mrs. Joseph Mancuso, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Samuel Rogers, Mrs. Charles Rathke, Mrs. William Michalsky, Mrs. Ralph Proud, Mrs. Horace Young, Mrs. Howard Case, Miss Dorothy Case, Mrs. Samuel Smith, Mrs. Jesse Betz, Mrs. Viola Bradway, Mrs. Harold Hunter, Miss Lucille Rogers, Bristol; Mrs. Edna Singley, Camden, N. J., and Mrs. Leona Ferris, Philadelphia.

headed by Martin Needham who lives on Snowden Ave., in that section. The commissioners announced that the roads have not yet been accepted by the Township and that they require 4 feet of fill. They further stated that the person responsible for the improvement of the conditions was Bernley White, the original land owner. It was revealed that the roads were begun while the Township was a second class Township and that under the old laws the job had to be bonded. President of the Commissioners George Sotung stated that he would attempt to get Mr. White to fix the roads and that the bond matter would be looked into.

Several other unhealthy conditions existing in the Township were brought to the Commissioners' attention. As a result of these Commissioner Eugene Stutz, chairman of the highway committee, requested that a motion be passed requiring new developers to install 30 foot streets with a ten foot sidewalk on each side with straight curbing. The matter was held over so that the new Township Engineer, William S. Erwin, could form a motion that would contain all the necessary requirements. The engineer Erwin was hired last evening.

Commissioner Fred K. Hibbs announced that the phone number for all fire stations in the Township will be Bristol 6050, the same as the police. This is possible because two-way radios have been purchased for the fire trucks. An announcement will be made when the telephone company has installed necessary equipment.

It was announced that the State Highway Dept. has refused to grant permits for traffic lights at Rt. 13 and Edgely Ave. The Dept. stated that there was an average of 594 cars and 4 pedestrians at the intersection every hour and that this does not meet the requirements.

The Commissioners, led by Booz, stated that they would attempt to fight for the traffic signals. It is hoped that the Civic Association can circulate a petition and garner several thousand names to aid the commissioners.

The Commissioners approved the plans for section 4 and 5 of Levittown last evening.

A discussion of needed recreational facilities for the Township was held. It was considered that the Bristol Township Authority might be used to finance the purchase of appropriate ground. The need for speed and action was stressed.

The house numbering problem was briefly discussed. The building inspector, Edgar Smith, was reappointed for another term.

It was stated by the Commissioners that the Building Code which specifies that every residence must have a first floor of 500 sq. ft. or more applies to trailers and that no trailers shall be permitted to enter the Township.

Five new policemen, who will operate in the Levittown area, were appointed to the reserve list. They are: Robert L. Lawrence; Harvey

C. Shaw; Ralph Ragnoli; Charles J. Haines; and Robert J. Hibbs.

The report of Chief of Police Joseph Seader included $2,005 in fines for the month of April. Of this total the state gets $570. The police car traveled 4,995 miles and received 660 radio calls. The violations included: speeding, 39; stop signs, 25; reckless driving, 16; overweight trucks, 19; failure to yield right of way, 10; passing red light, 4; no operators card, 4; no owners card, 4; illegal parking, 4; illegal passing, 3; failure to have red flag, 1; using passenger car for commercial purpose, 1; no flaps on truck, 4; passing on curve, 1; no inspection sticker, 1; failure to identify at scene of accident, 1; using expired plates, 1; and permitting unlicensed operator to drive, 1.

The report also contained: 6 stolen cars reported; 4 stolen cars recovered; 4 trips to hospital investigated accident; 10 cases of vandalism investigated; 17 accidents investigated; 2 hit and run; 6 fines for disorderly conduct; 8 robberies investigated; 2 malicious mischief; 8 drunken driving; and 2 non-support.

Listed in the police report were: 6 police escorts; 8 dogs removed or killed; 12 dog complaints; 4 messages from other states and counties; 12 rubbish conditions investigated; 9 rubbish complaints for no place to dump; and 6 complaints of burning rubbish.

The Age of Sophistry

thought that maybe Senator Taft was simply telling the truth when he said he couldn't be present — Senator Taft's reputation for being truthful is excellent, just as is his record for courage.

So far as fearing public reaction, the fact is of course that Senator Taft has been fully frank on his views in this and all other subjects (which is more than can be said of his principal rival for the Republican nomination) and thus far has garnered not only more delegates than anyone else, but more popular votes as well.

As to the question of whether the program was "meant to be a debate", it was so advertised in the T-V "blurbs" and was so referred to by the moderator, John (Poof) There goes perspiration!) Daly, who suggested at least twice that it was at least equal in historical importance to the famous Lincoln-Douglas polemics.

The writer of the letter attempts to draw a distinction between "debate" and "forum" which appears to us to defy analysis, since either of the words connotes two sides of an argument being presented; unless indeed by "forum" she intended to imply a sort of political equivalent of a bathing-beauty parade, in which the candidates would strut before the public going through their paces and showing their wares, without any reference to what they had to say.

Yet the letter seems to indicate that the real target was in the field of ideas. If this be so, then it is almost inconceivable that anyone could have sat through the program and completed it feeling that it succeeded in any way in its purported effort to "clarify the major issues," "encourage independent thinking," or "present all views."

Senator Taft was barred by a technicality from being represented by a proxy, although the sponsors did permit an unofficial proxy to sit in for General Eisenhower, who is only unofficially a candidate. The Eisenhower representative was emphatic in saying that he had no authority to speak for the absent General, or even to take his place at the discussion.

As for the subject of foreign aid, the audience actually heard only some triflingly different versions of the same broad aspect of this question — the Marshall-Truman-Acheson side of it, echoed through the "me-too" equivocations of the internationalist Republicans.

For the League of Women Voters to permit their own name and reputation to be used in the presentation of this biased and one-sided picture of the issue as being the whole broad subject, pro and con, was most unfortunate.

The woods are full of those who could have given the other side, if the League was really interested in "clarifying the issues" and "presenting all views."

Not only Senator Taft, but General MacArthur, ex-President Hoover, Senator McCarthy, Senator Byrd, and great host of others, could have spotlighted the subject and given a real debate, instead of the shabby and deceptive phony which resulted.

BROWNIES HONOR MOTHERS

Maple Shade Brownie Troop No. 103, had an anniversary party, Saturday. The troop marked its first "birthday", by honoring "Mother". Brownie mothers were invited. They were welcomed by Mrs. Francis Willett, troop leader. Ethel Gentsch read a poem dedicated to mother. Brownie messenger, Louise Zepp, distributed greeting cards to the mothers. The girls, in turn, pinned corsages of white and purple lilacs on their mothers and sang to them. Mrs. Willett showed the comforter, which the girls made during the winter, and announced it will be sent to Brownie Troop 563 of the Children's Heart Hospital. This troop of girls, less fortunate than most troops, was "adopted" by Maple Shade troop. The Maple Shade girls plan to be "big sisters," to them in every way possible.

As a reward for the work the girls have done, leaders will take the troop to a "circus" on May 17 by bus. Refreshments were served by the Brownies.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By "Ken" Brandau
Pinch-Hitting for Joe Elbersen

Several weeks ago the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association made arrangements for Homer Hobbs, Ollie Hobbs and myself to meet Phil Breske, field representative of the Wildlife Management. We spent the entire day making a survey of the flats along the Delaware River to ascertain what possible damage dredging of the river might do to our wildlife feeding and breeding grounds. We interviewed numerous sportsmen in the area and also Ed Balderson, manager of Penn Manor Club, in order to get their views on what could be done to help save as much as possible of the flats and marshlands when the dredging takes place.

Last week I received the following letter from Mr. Breske which is an unbiased opinion on local conditions and what we can do to help conserve our wildlife.

"Mr. Ken Brandau, President
Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association
Dear Mr. Brandau:

"My visit with you and the Messrs. Hobbs, was a real pleasure; we had a grand day and the company was good.

"Looking at the few remaining waterfowl areas along the Philadelphia-Trenton stretch of the Delaware—the few remaining productive waterfowl areas that may have their days numbered, was the only potential disappointment of the day.

The proposed dredging project of the river means that huge quantities of spoil will have to be dumped. Spoil that tells the story of eroded and scoured uplands, that go back to the very headwaters of the Delaware.

It is quite tempting to go back and think over the history and the changes that have taken place along the Delaware, but I guess we had better stick to the present and the immediate problem. As you have informed me, and from what I have learned from the Army Engineers, the proposal is to dredge a forty-foot channel from Philadelphia to Trenton. To dredge a channel of this depth means tremendous yardage of spoil to be dumped, and the danger to our waterfowl comes from the fact that the flats and the marshes along the river's shores seem to be the engineering answer to the logical place to dump spoil.

"Little do the general public and the agencies involved in river dredging realize that the areas they consider the dump areas are the lifeblood of our waterfowl population.

"Destroy our local marshes and we destroy our local waterfowl crop. Not only do we lose our local crop of birds, but by destroying attractive food and resting areas, we prevent migrant birds from dropping in and adding to the local scene.

"Drainage and filling have taken a drastic toll of our Atlantic seaboard waterfowl and it is our duty as sportsmen and citizens to prevent the heedless destruction of our natural resources.

"Not only will loss of the local marshes mean that migrant waterfowl will pass straight thru, but the local production of blacks, mallards, woodcocks and a few others will be cut to almost zero. This production of local birds is important to our region.

"Just what can we do to prevent the destruction of our Delaware

River marshes? The problem resolves itself into a matter of compromise—the dredging may be necessary for industrial progress, but the destruction of the flats and marshes is not a necessity! If the agencies involved, the cities, the Army Engineers and organized sportsmen and civic groups, can get together, it is entirely possible that the problem can be solved. True, there must be spoil dumps and at relatively accessible areas. If natural resource interests are to be considered, a complete inventory of flats, marshes and ponds must be made, and plans drawn so that the most productive areas are saved. It may involve a little more cost in haulage of spoil and in initial planning, but the relatively small cost involved, will be offset by the saving of our waterfowl and fishing areas.

"Hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation in general, is a big business, as well as a recreational must for our city dwellers. To destroy our local hunting, fishing and recreational areas, by selfishness or lack of foresight is plain stupidity!

"The recreational values of the Delaware River are as essential as the ore boats that will ply the 40-foot channel. Various interests are going to try to see that the channel becomes a reality and it is just as much, if not a greater responsibility, that the conservation interests see to it that the natural resources of the river are protected. It can be done if each and everyone of us consider it our job.

"No one can do it alone, nor is there any one agency that is going to do the job for you. It is your job and your obligation to find out what you can do to help save your outdoor heritage."

Sincerely yours,
"PHILL" BARSKE,

Field Representative
Wildlife Management Institute.

We would appreciate all interested in this worthwhile conservation project attending our meetings to present their views and make suggestions that will help us follow through to a successful conclusion.

Boy takes big carp from Neshaminy Creek . . . . Richard Gloyd, Bristol, R.D. No. 3, took two carp out of the Neshaminy on May 7th at Grundy's Corner. One was 34 inches long and weighed 25 pounds; the other was 32 inches long and weighed 22 pounds. Richard is only 17 years old but he is one of the best carp fishermen along the Neshaminy. He gets up at 5:00 a.m., and walks to Grundy's Corner so he can get a couple of hours fishing in before he has to go to school. His mother tells me he works for hours making his bait of corn meal — he cooks it until it is like glue; then he makes it into balls about 1 inch round. This is what he was using when he caught these two whoppers, so if any of you carp fishermen want to find out how to catch carp, see Richard. However, you'll have to get up early in the morning.

BOYS' LEAGUE WILL OPEN SEASON HERE SATURDAY AT 1:30

FIFTH WARD NINE CHALKS UP 2ND WIN OF SEASON

Fifth Ward Sporting Club, defending champion, chalked up its second straight win of the infant season of the Bristol Softball League by shellacking the 3M's nine, 11-2, last evening on Memorial field.

Stan Partyka and Henry Liberatore clouted home runs for the winning aggregation, both coming in the second and both being hit with two runners on base. The second half explosion was good for eight Fifth Ward runs.

The two four-base hits paced the eight hit attack off George Wallace. Liberatore had three for three while Partyka had a single in addition to his home run. However, it was stated that Wallace received loose support.

"Butch" Koreyva again was on the hill for the Warders and allowed the scotch-tape workers but four hits, two of the scratch variety. "Amy" Lewis and "Chuck" Kline got the clean hits off the Fifth Ward twirler while both of Conoline's hits would have been put-outs if fielded cleanly. Koreyva struck out seven and walked but one.

The 1951 champions scored eight in the second. Liberatore opened with a hit and after Cordisco fled out, Fahey also hit safely. Partyka's clout went over Lewis' head for a homer. Koreyva and Addeo got on via errors and Vic Cauti walked to fill the bags. Pica got on by an error, two runs scoring. Liberatore's homer accounted for three more runs.

The two Minnesota Mining tallies were scored when George Adams reached base on interference. Conoline hit off Koreyva's glove, and Amy Lewis' hit was fumbled in center by Liberatore.

Numbers Runner Is Fined and Sentenced

a lottery and unlawfully maintaining gambling devices, will be not-processed because of lack of sufficient evidence.

Anzalone, who was alone at the time of his arrest, testified he engaged as a numbers runner for about five weeks. He had been laid off as a bartender and his wife expects a baby in July and he was out of a job.

He testified he was sitting in a Trenton bar when some man he didn't know approached him and asked him to drive a car for $65 a week once a day between Bristol and Trenton, N. J.

"My wife," said the World War II veteran, "begged me not to take the job."

"You should have listened to your wife," said Judge Satterthwaite, who said he was sending Anzalone to jail to set an example to other gamblers in Bucks county.

Both Court officials and the State Police expressed skepticism at the Anzalone recital in which he practically "knew nothing."

Trooper Kutney revealed that the numbers slips seized indicated mostly five cent bets to 276 plays.

About 12 or 15 number sheets, paper rolls, and other materials were exhibited by the Commonwealth which were found on Anzalone at the time he was apprehended.

"Didn't you think you were getting pretty good pay for only making one trip daily between Trenton and Bristol?" Judge Satterthwaite asked. "Yes, I did," said Anzalone.

Open Evenings

Several weeks ago the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association made arrangements for Homer Hobbs, Ollie Hobbs and myself to meet Phil Breske, field representative of the Wildlife Management. We spent the entire day making a survey of the flats along the Delaware River to ascertain what possible damage dredging of the river might do to our wildlife feeding and breeding grounds. We interviewed numerous sportsmen in the area and also Ed Balderson, manager of Penn Manor Club, in order to get their views on what could be done to help save as much as possible of the flats and marshlands when the dredging takes place.

Last week I received the following letter from Mr. Breske which is an unbiased opinion on local conditions and what we can do to help conserve our wildlife.

"Mr. Ken Brandau, President
Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association
Dear Mr. Brandau:

"My visit with you and the Messrs. Hobbs, was a real pleasure; we had a grand day and the company was good.

"Looking at the few remaining waterfowl areas along the Philadelphia-Trenton stretch of the Delaware—the few remaining productive waterfowl areas that may have their days numbered, was the only potential disappointment of the day.

The proposed dredging project of the river means that huge quantities of spoil will have to be dumped. Spoil that tells the story of eroded and scoured uplands, that go back to the very headwaters of the Delaware.

It is quite tempting to go back and think over the history and the changes that have taken place along the Delaware, but I guess we had better stick to the present and the immediate problem. As you have informed me, and from what I have learned from the Army Engineers, the proposal is to dredge a forty-foot channel from Philadelphia to Trenton. To dredge a channel of this depth means tremendous yardage of spoil to be dumped, and the danger to our waterfowl comes from the fact that the flats and the marshes along the river's shores seem to be the engineering answer to the logical place to dump spoil.

"Little do the general public and the agencies involved in river dredging realize that the areas they consider the dump areas are the lifeblood of our waterfowl population.

"Destroy our local marshes and we destroy our local waterfowl crop. Not only do we lose our local crop of birds, but by destroying attractive food and resting areas, we prevent migrant birds from dropping in and adding to the local scene.

"Drainage and filling have taken a drastic toll of our Atlantic seaboard waterfowl and it is our duty as sportsmen and citizens to prevent the heedless destruction of our natural resources.

"Not only will loss of the local marshes mean that migrant waterfowl will pass straight thru, but the local production of blacks, mallards, woodcocks and a few others will be cut to almost zero. This production of local birds is important to our region.

"Just what can we do to prevent the destruction of our Delaware

LAUDS AUTO STORES' ROLE IN HARDWARE SELLING

(Reprinted from "Automotive Retailer")

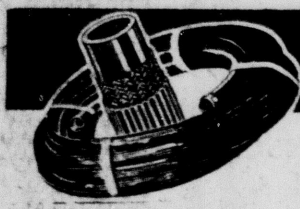

KANSAS CITY — Auto supply stores, super drug stores, and variety chain stores lead the nation in hardware selling, leaving conventional hardware operations trailing in the ranks, according to Bruce Burgess, vice-president of the Union Fork & Hoe Company.

These stores lead because of their SUPERIOR MERCHANDISING, said Mr. Burgess, who is merchandising manager of the Columbus, Ohio, company. He spoke during the 63rd annual convention of the Western Retail Implement and Hardware Association here.

In his address, "Key to Stronger Selling," Mr. Burgess told members that successful selling can be attained by the mastery of seven phases of business merchandising, all starting with the letter "P"—people, product, policy, promotion, personnel, public relations, and price.

"Perhaps the most important of these," he said, "is people. Sales personnel should treat them as guests of a store, not as customers. An advertisement in the newspaper is really not an offering to a customer. It is an invitation for the person to visit a store where, it is assured, he will be treated as a guest."

THE AGE OF SOPHISTRY

Last May 3rd, this column criticized a television program put on by the League of Women Voters, a cigaret company and the pro-Eisenhower Life Magazine because it pretended to be a debate and turned out to be an ingenious sales talk for the brand of internationalism which the Life-Time editors have endorsed.

We did so braced for a storm, heads bowed against the expected deluge of protests from the League.

Strangely enough, only one has been received. Since it represents a point of view on public affairs extremely widely held in the America of this generation, it is worth quoting at some length:

"The program was in no way meant to be a debate, but a candidate's forum. The concept back of the program was not a devious and subtle plan to dress up internationalism, but an attempt to clarify the major issues of the election.

"The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization with a splendid record of stimulating interest, clarifying the issues, and encouraging independent thinking. That the League 'backs' no candidate but attempts to present all views fairly is well-known. That you overlook this fact is regrettable to say the least.

"You mention the 'absent Senator Taft' and I feel that in all fairness you should report that Senator Taft was urged to attend, but was unable to because of a previous speaking engagement. That Senator Kefauver also had a previous engagement but felt the occasion important enough to merit changing his plans should also be noted.

"Undoubtedly, Mr. Taft overlooked the tremendous possibilities offered to present his views to a television audience far in the millions, but it seems incredible that a candidate as 'politically astute' as Mr. Taft could ignore the opportunity unless he is not sure of the reaction of the American Citizen to his isolationist theories."

Since we don't feel that the communication is one of which the signer will have reason to be proud, on second reading, and since we wish to discuss it plainly without personal considerations being raised, we will leave off the name of the Fallington matron who sent it.

The letter itself is typical of the times we live in. It represents the bane of our ebbing efforts at self-government. Letters similar to this are flowing by the thousands across the desks of those who struggle with public problems in Congress, and into the hands of all our principal public officials.

Only one kind thing can be said, in fairness and justice, commendatory of such letters — they do show a good intention, a well-disposed if hopelessly inept desire to be helpful. But what good intentions are the paving material for, is only too well known.

There is also only one defense ever offered for such a letter, once it is brought out that those who write them almost invariably are merely echoing propaganda passed along to them by others, and have neither examined the facts nor used logic in analyzing them.

That defense is that "a person has a right to her own opinion, hasn't she?" That's one for the Divinity to answer — whether anyone has a right to an opinion based, not on information, but on prejudice, emotionalism and hand-fed dogmas. There are those in life, still, who are interested in facts and truth, and who think that the title to an opinion, like some forms of real estate, can be made valid only by adverse possession.

Frankly we have never thought much of anyone's opinions which start out by calling someone else names, or impugning their motives. Calling Senator Taft or anyone else an "isolationist" strikes us as a singularly ineffective way to start out understanding the complexities of foreign aid, with its ramified background leading back to Wilkie's futile "one world" theories, and Vandenberg's pseudo "bipartisanship."

Likewise, we see no excuse for the invidious suggestion that Senator Taft stayed away from the program because he "is not sure of the reaction of the American citizen" to his views on foreign affairs.

Common courtesy, it seems to us, might have suggested to the letter-writer that she include among the possibilities the

KEFAUVER PROVES TO BE A NON-STOP DOORBELL RINGER

In Handshakes Announces "I Am Running for The Presidency"

HAS SECRET WEAPON

This is His Pretty and Extremely Able Wife, Nancy

One incentive for his campaign for the Presidency which Sen. Estes Kefauver normally doesn't talk about is the fact that his six-year-old son thinks the White House would be a swell place to run a toy electric train, as disclosed in this fifth article in a series of close-ups of the leading candidates for President.

ARTICLE FIVE

By Inez Robb

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent).

Other Presidential candidates in this year of grace may be hand-somer, richer or more experienced than Sen. Estes Kefauver (D) Tenn. But none of them can hold a candle to the Tennessee flash as a self-winding, non-stop doorbell ringer and handshaker. Thousands of astounded voters from Maine's icy mountains to Florida's coral strand have had their respective hands shaken by a stranger, a tall, thin, earnest man, with the simple announcement "I am Estes Kefauver. I am running for the Presidency."

Sometimes, as in northern New Hampshire where folks have to struggle along without television and consequently do not recognize the greatest TV star the United States Senate has produced, Kefauver's sudden appearance and announcement that he is running for the Presidency have been met with skepticism.

"President of what?" asked the spokesman of a small group of New Englanders gathered at a cross-road store.

"Of the United States," the Senator replied.

"Do tell!" the spokesman exclaimed. "What ye doin' hereabouts?"

In discussing the political advantages of handshaking, the lanky Senator says "It's wonderful to see the cordiality of the people. They seem to appreciate my discussing the issues with them. I think it does me an awful lot of good."

Such tactics, plus his secret weapon, may win him the nomination yet if he survives the physical ordeal. His "secret weapon," so tagged by Sen. Richard Russell (D) Ga., who also is a candidate for the democratic nomination, is his extremely pretty, extremely

Dr. William Orick, headmaster of Solebury School addressed Bristol Rotary Club, last evening, in regard to that institution of learning.

The school is non-denominational, embraces both boys and girls, and has at present an enrollment of 125 pupils in six grades. About half of the students are from Pennsylvania, the remainder from other states, and includes two Mohammedans from Arabia.

The school specializes in personalized education, teaches tolerance, and the discrimination between good and evil.

It was started 27 years ago by four teachers who were dissatisfied with the then prevailing standards, as a cooperative enterprise. The campuses of the boys and girls are 1 1/2 miles apart.

Dr. Conan, of Harvard University, called private schools a dividing influence, a statement claimed "without rhyme or reason, especially in view that private schools want no tax support, but wish to remain independent."

They are subject to the same state supervision as public schools, it was stated.

Installation of Oil Burner is Under Way

EMILIE, May 16—Seventeen attended a meeting of the Sunday School Board Tuesday evening in Emilie Methodist Church social room. The session was presided over by Jay Hook; prayer was offered by the Rev. Samuel Gaskell, pastor. Horace Booz read the secretary's report and George Baker gave the financial report.

Announcement was made that work had been started to install an oil burning heating system in the men's Bible class building. Donations will be received, and the balance will be financed by the trustee and Sunday School treasures.

Mothers, Daughters Hear Story "Far Above Rubies"

Tribute to "mother" was paid Wednesday evening on the occasion of the annual mother - daughter banquet in Bristol Presbyterian Church. A group of 168 gathered about the tables which were festive with bouquets of spring blossoms. Carole Jane Wright was requested to ask the blessing, and serving as toastmistress was Mrs. John F. Wright.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Ruth Parsons Strahan, Moorestown, N. J., presented as a monologue the story of three women in the Bible as portrayed in the book "Far Above Rubies."

Vocalist for the occasion was Miss Karlene Hartel, Morrisville, and the two piano selections were by Miss Rae Frances Bunting, Morrisville.

Gifts were presented to the oldest and youngest grandmothers, and those in other categories.

Serving as waiters at the catered baked ham dinner were members of the men's Bible class.

JUDGE SAYS MAN TOO 'IMMATURE' TO DRIVE

Severely Reprimands Warren S. Pye; Is Fined, Given Sentence

INTOXICATION CASES

DOYLESTOWN, May 16—A number of cases were before Bucks County court Tuesday. They included drunken driver cases; and a Bristol township resident was sentenced to pay costs, a $50 fine, and serve not more than 18 months in jail, and declared too immature to handle an automobile.

Warren S. Pye, 21, Bath rd., Bristol twp., a used car salesman, who was branded as being immature to handle so deadly a weapon as an automobile, by Judge Edward G. Blester, was sentenced to pay the costs, pay a $50 fine and serve not more than 18 months in jail.

Pye, who was arrested March 21 by Chief of Police Ernest Maret, Hulmeville, has seven motor code arrests to his discredit.

Bristol Chief of Police Linford Jones, who was asked by Judge Blester what he knew of the defendant's record, remarked that he and Chief of Police Joseph O. Seader, Bristol twp., pursued the defendant in a police car traveling more than 60 miles an hour.

The defendant, who admitted driving around with the spotlight pointed up in the air, or a cut-out wide open, said: "I like to hear the noise." "You sound positively childish and immature," said Judge Blester. He quit school in the ninth grade to go to work.

Judge Blester told the defendant that he may apply for a parole at the expiration of 30 days. He broke into tears as he was led away to prison by a court attendant.

The defendant pleaded guilty to operating a motor vehicle after operating privilege had been suspended and revoked.

He was described as being the type of motorist who "thinks the highways are made for them and no one else has a right to drive on them," by Judge Blester, who remarked: "It is people like you who cause everyone to fear for their lives when out driving."

Pye, who bragged to the Court

BUCKS COUNTY'S DEPUTY SHERIFF LANG TELEGRAPHS GOV. FINE, ASKING FOR STATE POLICE AT LEVITTOWN AT ONCE

LEVITTOWN, May 16—Swift action took place this morning at the strikebound 16,000 housing project of William Levitt and Sons, Inc. Part of the project is located in Bristol township and part in Tullytown borough. Deputy Sheriff William Lang, of Bucks County, telegraphed Governor John S. Fine requesting assistance of State Police at once.

Trouble arose at the project when a number of construction employees entered the project and started working before the arrival of pickets. Police had to rescue some of the workers and escort them through the picket line.

Telegram sent to Governor Fine by Lang reads as follows: "Levitt and Sons, Inc. located in Bristol Township and Tullytown Borough is involved in a labor strike to force employees to join the union. Approximately 500 have created violence. We request the assistance of State Police at once to enforce order. An injunction has been issued by the courts of Bucks County to limit five pickets to each entrance. We have mass picketing and violence. Harry H. Ross, Sheriff of Bucks County, is incapacitated and William B. Lang, chief Deputy Sheriff is in charge."

"WILLIAM B. LANG, 'Deputy Sheriff'."

Construction workers were ordered off the job by contractors at 9:30 this morning and have been told to report back to the job at 8:30 Monday morning.

Violence flared anew as over 100 pickets ignored the restraining order issued by the Bucks County Court against mass picketing. The pickets crowded along the Oxford Valley-Tullytown road, near the large concrete mixer, which was put into operation. Huge rocks and stones were hurled at the mixer.

State Police in three cars cruised along the highways. Deputy Sheriff William Lang, of Bucks County, along with Bristol township police, Tullytown Borough police and special police, patrolled the area.

Workers employed on the Levittown project assembled in front of the exhibition center, waiting to see whether or not they would be ordered back to work after six days of enforced idleness. There were large numbers of automobiles of workers, as well as strikers parked along both sides of highways in the area. Some parked their cars at a distance as a protection against damage.

Harold Kalish, attorney for Levitt and Sons, says that it is expected that work on the building project will be resumed today. At nine o'clock operation of the concrete mixer ceased.

One man was taken into police custody and was lodged in the Bristol Police Headquarters by Tullytown chief-of-police, John Kratz.

Due to the Bristol office of West-

APPREHEND A PHILA. PAROLEE IN BENSLEM

Chief Rentz Finds John H. Robinson Under Pile of Brush at 2.05 A. M.

COMPLAINTS MADE HE PLEADS GUILTY

BRIDGEWATER, May 16—A Philadelphia man, released last September on a five year parole on charges of assault and battery and attempt to rape, was apprehended at 1:50 a. m. Tuesday by Chief of Police, George H. Rentz, Benslem township.

John H. Robinson, 48, 1845 N. Marine street, Philadelphia, police said, gained entrance to the house of William F. Abel, Bristol Pike and Bridgewater road, here, after breaking a window screen early Tuesday morning. Mrs. Abel telephoned Chief Rentz there was a prowler on the second floor in her house.

Shortly afterwards, while Chief Rentz was investigating the Abel house, he received a second telephone call that a prowler was attempting to get into the window at the home of Howard Price, about four doors away.

The prowler, it is stated, then ran across the street, to the property of Robert W. Scott.

Chief Rentz, who continued the investigation, noticed dogs barking and began a search of some underbrush near a woodpile.

Chief Rentz apprehended Rob-

NUMBERS RUNNER IS FINED AND SENTENCED

Santo Anzalone, 29, Bristol, Tells of Making One Trip Daily to Trenton

DOYLESTOWN, May 16—A Bristol man, formerly a bartender at Trenton, N. J., pleaded guilty to two counts in Bucks County court this week. Santo Anzalone, 29, of Farragut avenue, Bristol, testified that he made one trip daily between Bristol and Trenton as a numbers runner for $65 a week.

Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite sentenced him to pay $500 fine and costs of prosecution, and to serve not less than one nor more than 11 months in the county prison.

Pleading guilty to two counts, unlawful possession of numbers tickets and unlawful management of a lottery, the defendant, who never had been in any trouble, testified he knew only the first names of the men to whom he returned the money or who paid him.

Trooper Andrew J. Kutney, of the Langhorne sub-station of the Penna. State Police, arrested Anzalone, March 27, when his car was halted and the defendant searched. The sum of $127.43 was taken from his pants pocket and $124, which was in his wallet, was his own money, state police said.

District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, in keeping with the policy of the district attorney's office with reference to defendants implicated in gambling offenses, requested a jail sentence.

Four counts, unlawful possession of numbers tickets, establishing gambling devices, setting up

Put Trash Out Early For "Clean-Up" Trucks

Announcement was made today by Bristol "Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up" committee that arrangements have been made to have all rubbish and trash removed from the properties of the people in this area.

This is to be done tomorrow morning, commencing at eight o'clock when trucks, arranged through committeeman William Hayes, will be assembled at the municipal building, and be designated to certain territories to pick up rubbish and trash.

Committee members announced today, that "Collection will be made in Bristol borough and Bristol township, for anyone who wants trash picked up, so long as such is in a spot accessible to a large truck."

The committee urges each resident to have trash in one pile so that the pick-up will be made easier. If any pile is missed, residents are urged to phone either Bristol 3591 or 3882.

HOLD SPEC'L SESSIONS

EDGELEY, May 15—The Bristol Township Commissioners held a regular May meeting Wednesday evening at the Edgely Hall at 8 p. m. The last regular meeting of the Commissioners was held April 9th.

In the period between the regular meetings, the Commissioners held at least six special meetings, during which an agreement with Levitt concerning sewer and water was made, a planning commission was formed, a tractor was purchased, the building code was discussed, an agreement to provide Bristol Township Police for Levittown at Levitt's expense was completed, and approval of the proposed alterations of Township lines was granted. All of this business was transacted at meetings that were unannounced and consequently not reported in the press.

A bid of $2,467.50 for the complete installation of traffic lights on Cedar ave., at Rt. 13 and at State rd., was accepted. The bidder was George C. Bailey and Sons. John Lilinski of Tullytown was awarded the old Township equipment with a bid of $535. Edward Crawford was the other bidder at $505.

Albert Rogers, president of the Bristol Township Civic Association, read to the Commissioners a few letters that the Association dealt with safety and health problems that needed attention. The commissioners replied that the matters were being remedied.

A delegation of home owners from the Rockdale-Belardi homes opposite Winder Village on Rt. 413 appeared before the Commissioners to appeal that road and drainage problems be solved. The group was

Watson Store is Sold To Peter Amadio, Jr.

After being in the same family for three generations, Watson's Cut Rate store has been sold to Peter Amadio, Jr., who will operate it once again as a registered pharmacy. The business, known for years as Watson's Drug Store, was established in 1893 by Maurice Watson, a graduate of Phila. College of Pharmacy, who came here from Bordentown, N. J. Mr. Watson known as "Pete", operated the business at 595 Bath st. until 1917, when poor health necessitated his retirement. His son, John R. Watson, who was also a graduate of P. C. P., then took over operation of the business. He explained the store to its present size by incorporating the property at 597 Bath street. Since the death of John Watson in 1942, the business has been operated first by his wife, Lillian K. Watson, and recently by his daughter, Ruth A. Watson.

Mr. Amadio, a native of Bristol, graduated from Bristol high school. He graduated from Temple University College of Pharmacy, studied in the Liberal Arts College there, also did graduate work in pharmacology at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He worked as a registered pharmacist for the past three years in prescription stores in the Phila. area, and was in complete charge of the pharmacy at Mason General Hospital, N. Y., for 16 months. The latter experience occurred while he served in the U. S. Army.

Mr. Amadio and his wife and son will reside on the premises.

AWARD BENSLEM TEACHERS SALARY INCREASE OF $400

Budget Adopted; Proposal Made to Stagger the H. S. Schedule Next Term

GRADUATION, JUNE 10

Board Adopts A Resolution Providing $5 Tax Monthly On Trailers

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 16—In adopting the budget for the coming year, Benslem township school directors on Wed. evening increased salaries of teachers in the district $400 per year. Proposal was made at the meeting that a staggered schedule be adopted for the coming term; three teachers were elected, and one resignation accepted. All members of the board were present.

The report of superintendent of schools William Shellenberger, was concerned with school plant and equipment. He reported that the fence work on the ground adjacent to the high school has been completed, and the ground plowed, graded and seeded. He also informed that the Andalusia addition is now substantially completed, with a few minor adjustments to be made.

A committee of parents from Trevoze P. T. A. requested a meeting with the director to discuss unsatisfactory condition of the Trevoze play-yard. The board members will meet at the Trevoze school ground with parents, Saturday, at 10 a. m.

Conference held with representatives of the Bell Telephone Co., regarding trees in front of Andalusia school resulted with the company agreeing to remove three trees which are in dangerous condition. The trees, it was stated, lean on company's cable. Report was also made that organization of Andalusia school has been completed following transfer of pupils since enlargement of the school. A maximum load is now being handled there, Mr. Shellenberger reported.

Three teachers were elected for elementary grades, these being the Misses Gertrude Huff, Jane Walter and Ann Nelson.

A proposed organization of the high school for next term was explained by the high school principal, Russell Struble. This includes a staggered schedule, with the school day beginning at 8:05 for junior high school pupils, and running to 4:45 for senior high pupils. The board did not adopt the proposal, but will meet briefly Tuesday evening to give it further consideration.

The tentative school calendar for next term was adopted.

On May 23rd the annual high school spring concert will be given. An innovation this year will be an exhibit of pupil's work in home economics, industrial arts, ceramics and other arts. There will also be work from a few school departments. Booths for such will be arranged in the corridors.

In cooperation with Bristol borough school district, Benslem will participate in a concert which will present the combined high school and adult choir in a concert at the Grand Theatre, Bristol, June 12th.

The meeting marked final adoption of the budget, and made provision for $400 increase in salary for all teachers.

Speaker listed for commencement exercises June 10th is Dr. Millard M. Gladfelder, provost at Temple University, Philadelphia.

A delegation from trailer camps in the township discussed problems, and voiced objection to the $5 per month tax on trailers. The board adopted resolution providing for the $5 per month tax on such.

Resignation of Miss Ellen Hart as first grade teacher at Cornwells was accepted.

NOTHING TO DO?

"What shall I do when there's nothing to do?" That has been the plaintive query of many a person forced by age or illness to retire from active pursuits. It is a question that demands an answer—best of all by the individual concerned if he can find his own.

In Education Hall at the Museum of Natural History in New York there are on display the creative efforts of 1,600 New York men and women ranging in ages from 60 to 102 in the sixth annual Hobby Show for Older Persons under the auspices of the Welfare and Health Council. The most remarkable feature of the show is that the inventiveness and skills displayed by many of the exhibitors were entirely latent when idleness overtook them.

Bob Stollack—he says he had 300 fights and defeated two champions—formerly made his living with his fists, doubled up. Although he suffered a stroke, he found himself capable of hand-tooled copper sculpture. One of his exhibits is The Last Supper. Then there is Charlie Miller, who says he is the last survivor of the pony express riders. At 102 he is not "through." His contribution is a Wild West scene in wood. Between them is a wide range of exhibits in scores of fields.

To any retired person almost at wit's end to find some means of occupation, there could scarcely fail to be inspiration in this hobby show. One of the worst fates that can befall an individual is to be reconciled to doing nothing. Better, of course, than pursuing any hobby is continuous regular employment by those mentally capable and willing to work. To those for whom this is no longer possible, a hobby affords rescue from depressing idleness.

HOW'S THE FISHING?

New York state's Commerce Department has a red face and hot from sunburn. It stands under a gleeful accusation from New Hampshire of passing off a New Hampshire trout stream as a New York vacation asset.

Compared with New Hampshire, New York is, of course, a giant state in geographic extent, which implies that it is not lacking in scenic varieties. New York has the Catskill and Adirondack Mountains, where trout streams are plentiful. For what purpose, then, did New York hijack—if it did—a trout stream near New Hampshire's White Mountains?

The New Hampshire Planning and Development Commission, with a dead pan expression, gives forth as follows:

"In our promotional literature, we wouldn't print a photograph of Rockefeller Plaza, or Broadway, or Wall Street, and give the impression it was Success, N. H."

In this battle of vacation promotion, one question isn't mentioned at all: How good is the fishing? What the best flies to use? On this last point, argument would soon become esoteric, heated and could last all summer.

Kefauver Proves To Be A Non-Stop Doorbell Ringer

able wife Nancy, a red head who dazes men, women and children. "If I were running with Mrs. Kefauver, I'd be glad to accept second place on the ticket," Sen. Russell said recently. Even the Republicans find Nancy irresistible. Rep. Clarence Brown (R) Ohio, who is helping steer the Taft campaign, once said, "I am almost convinced I should support Kefauver, Nancy, that is."

The beautiful Nancy, born in Scotland, is the soul of tact. In the deep south, when her husband invaded barber shops to shake hands alike with the latherer and lathered, Nancy goes right along, too, because the men usually say "Come on in, honey, and get acquainted."

But when she campaigned with the Senator in New England in bitter cold of last winter, she waited outside man's last stronghold, the tony parlor. She figured New England men might resent a feminine invasion.

The Senator himself was delighted by one these New England women to whom he introduced himself. "Who's running against you?" she asked. "Mebber if you don't have opposition, I vote for you."

The Tennessee Senator, who rose to fame as the chairman of the former Senate Crime Investigating Committee, takes Nancy along on barn-storming tours as often as he can persuade her to leave the four little Kefauvers — Linda, 10, David, 6, Diane, 4 and Gail, 18 months.

Linda and David came home from school considerably upset by their playmates' insistence that the Kefauvers were "going to have to move into the White House." David was finally mollified when told how large the executive mansion is.

A pair of soft bedroom slippers is as much a part of the presidential campaign kit of Sen. Kefauver as his famed trade-mark, his coonskin cap.

The moment the Senator boards a plane, he kicks off his shoes, puts on the bedroom slippers and makes himself comfortable. Then he starts dictating to his secretary, Don Vaughn. Whether in plane, train or auto, Kefauver makes it a policy to dictate letters to the persons he has contacted in the last town visited. He takes no chance on "Out of sight, out of mind."

"When I get tired of dictating or reading," he says, "I put black blinders on my eyes and go to sleep. I am blessed that I can sleep anywhere."

The Senator is no slug-a-bed. He is always on the road by 8 a. m. whether in Washington or on tour. He fortifies himself with a hearty breakfast, normally orange juice, toast, scrambled eggs and sausage and coffee. Sometimes he switches to hot cakes or waffles. On his six foot three inch frame, they look good. Overweight is no problem with him—yet.

Lunch is where he finds it when he is barnstorming. If he is driving, he will pull up at a diner or hot-dog wagon and buy a snack of hamburgers to eat in the car.

Dinner, too, is often catch-as-catch-can. Like all political aspirants, he is case-hardened to chicken, the banquet perennial. But he prefers a shrimp cocktail, a slab of roast beef and, occasionally when the budget permits, a thick steak.

Since he started running for the Presidency Kefauver has received coon skin caps from admirers all over the nation. Live gifts have arrived, too, including a turkey dinner on the hoof. The Kefauver children were so entranced with the gobble that they put a leash on it and now no one has the heart to kill the pet.

The Senator's original coonskin cap, one of the weapons with which he beat the powerful Crump machine in Tennessee to win his Senatorial seat, is now in the trophy room of the University of Michigan. He always carries two or three coonskin caps with him on his journeys and occasionally sends one to a deserving voter.

He sent a cap to a nine-year-old boy whose mother subsequently wrote the Senator that her son refused to take the cap off even to bathe.

One of Kefauver's more recent acquisitions is a deerskin cap from a group of New England admirers. This head piece, the group wrote, would enable him to run faster.

It remains to be seen whether the coonskin cap can boost Kefauver into the Presidency over the opposition of the national democratic machine as it catapulted him into the Senate over the opposition of the Crump machine.

Crime may not pay, but Sen.

Kefauver's election to the White House would certainly be a powerful argument that investigation of it does!

(This series will be resumed Monday with a close-up of Governor Earl Warren of California.)

19th Mother-Daughter Dinner Much Enjoyed

The 19th mother-daughter banquet of Mrs. William Mohre's Sunday School class, Bristol Methodist Church, was held Monday evening at Carslake's dining room, Mount Holly, N. J. The room was decorated with dogwood, and the table centerpieces were bouquets of red tulips. The programs and place cards were in block-print Penna. Dutch design. Favors were shadow frame pictures which were hand-painted by Mrs. George Hood in colors to blend with the women's kitchens, portraying Penna Dutch symbols.

The menu consisted of: Tomato juice, vegetable soup, salad, cottage cheese, preserves, roast turkey with filling (or combination seafood), vegetables, sherbet, rolls, butter, coffee, chocolate sundae. Music was enjoyed during the banquet.

Mrs. Joseph Korz, president, welcomed the guests. The blessing was asked by Mrs. Edwin Ballinger. Each past president spoke on incidents during her term of office or read the newspaper clipping about the banquet in the year of her term.

The banquet date was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hood, and the group surprised her with a cake and a handkerchief shower. A play, entitled "Mushrooms Coming Up," was presented with the following cast: Mrs. Korz, Miss Alice Smith, Mrs. Arthur Peterson, Mrs. Ballinger, Mrs. Melvin Houser, and Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Other guests included: Mrs. William Mohre, Mrs. Russell Booz, Mrs. Frank Mershon, Mrs. J. S. Lynn, Mrs. John Simons, Mrs. Roy Tracy, Mrs. Amanda Fischer, Mrs. William Milnor, Mrs. William Doan, Mrs. Norman Rapp, Mrs. Joseph Mancuso, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Samuel Rogers, Mrs. Charles Rathke, Mrs. William Michalsky, Mrs. Ralph Proud, Mrs. Horace Young, Mrs. Howard Case, Miss Dorothy Case, Mrs. Samuel Smith, Mrs. Jesse Betz, Mrs. Viola Bradway, Mrs. Harold Hunter, Miss Lucille Rogers, Bristol: Mrs. Edna Singley, Camden, N. J., and Mrs. Leona Ferris, Philadelphia.

Commissioners Have Busy Session

headed by Martin Needham who lives on Snowden Ave., in that section. The commissioners announced that the roads have not yet been accepted by the Township and that they require 4 feet of fill. They further stated that the person responsible for the improvement of the conditions was Bernley White, the original land owner. It was revealed that the roads were begun while the Township was a second class Township and that under the old laws the job had to be bonded. President of the Commissioners, George Sotung, stated that he would attempt to get Mr. White to fix the roads and that the bond matter would be looked into.

Several other unhealthy conditions existing in the Township were brought to the Commissioners' attention. As a result of these Commissioner Eugene Stutz, chairman of the highway committee, requested that a motion be passed requiring new developers to install 20 foot streets with a ten foot sidewalk on each side with straight curbing. The matter was held over so that the new Township Engineer, William S. Erwin, could form a motion that would contain all the necessary requirements. The engineer Erwin was hired last evening.

Commissioner Fred K. Hibbs announced that the phone number for all fire stations in the Township will be Bristol 6050, the same as the police. This is possible because two-way radios have been purchased for the fire trucks. An announcement will be made when the telephone company has installed necessary equipment.

It was announced that the State Highway Dept. has refused to grant permits for traffic lights at Rt. 13 and Edgely Ave. The Dept. stated that there was an average of 594 cars and 4 pedestrians at the intersection every hour and that this does not meet the requirements.

The Commissioners, led by Booz, stated that they would attempt to fight for the traffic signals. It is hoped that the Civic Association can circulate a petition and garner several thousand names to aid the commissioners.

The Commissioners approved the plans for section 4 and 5 of Levittown last evening.

A discussion of needed recreational facilities for the Township was held. It was considered that the Bristol Township Authority might be used to finance the purchase of appropriate ground. The need for speed and action was stressed.

The house numbering problem was briefly discussed. The building inspector, Edgar Smith, was reappointed for another term.

It was stated by the Commissioners that the Building Code which specifies that every residence must have a first floor of 500 sq. ft. or more applies to trailers and that no trailers shall be permitted to enter the Township.

Five new policemen, who will operate in the Levittown area, were appointed to the reserve list. They are: Robert L. Lawrence; Harvey

C. Shaw; Ralph Ragnoff; Charles J. Haines; and Robert J. Hibbs.

The report of Chief of Police Joseph Seader included $2,065 in fines for the month of April. Of this total the state gets $570. The police car traveled 4,995 miles and received 660 radio calls. The violations included: speeding, 39; stop signs, 25; reckless driving, 16; overweight trucks, 19; failure to yield right of way, 10; passing red light, 4; no operators card, 4; no owners card, 4; illegal parking, 4; illegal passing, 3; failure to have red flag, 1; using passenger car for commercial purpose, 1; no flaps on truck, 4; passing on curve, 1; no inspection sticker, 1; failure to identify at scene of accident, 1; using expired plates, 1; and permitting unlicensed operator to drive, 1.

The report also contained: 6 stolen cars reported; 4 stolen cars recovered; 4 trips to hospital investigated; 10 cases of vandalism investigated; 17 accidents investigated; 2 hit and run; 6 fines for disorderly conduct; 8 robberies investigated; 2 malicious mischief; 8 drunken driving; and 2 non-support.

Listed in the police report were: 6 police escorts; 8 dogs removed or killed; 12 dog complaints; 4 messages from other states and counties; 12 rubbish complaints investigated; 9 rubbish complaints for no place to dump; and 6 complaints of burning rubbish.

ern Union being closed, as the result of strike of Western Union employees, the appeal to Governor Fine was telephoned to Harrisburg and it was stated that Western Union would deliver it to the Governor there.

It was stated later during the morning that the only Levitt employees entering the project were those operating the concrete mixer. Two of these were held prisoners at the mixing plant for several hours.

The other Levitt workers reporting this morning set in automobiles in front of the Exhibition Center.

Hebrews Pentecost will be marked June 10th.

thought that maybe Senator Taft was simply telling the truth when he said he couldn't be present — Senator Taft's reputation for being truthful is excellent, just as is his record for courage.

So far as fearing public reaction, the fact is of course that Senator Taft has been fully frank on his views in this and all other subjects (which is more than can be said of his principal rival for the Republican nomination) and thus far has garnered not only more delegates than anyone else, but more popular votes as well.

As to the question of whether the program was "meant to be a debate", it was so advertised in the T-V "blurbs" and was so referred to by the moderator, John (Poof! There goes perspiration!) Daly, who suggested at least twice that it was at least equal in historical importance to the famous Lincoln-Douglas polemics.

The writer of the letter attempts to draw a distinction between "debate" and "forum" which appears to us to defy analysis, since either of the words connotes two sides of an argument being presented; unless indeed by "forum" she intended to imply a sort of political equivalent of a bathing-beauty parade, in which the candidates would strut before the public going through their paces and showing their wares, without any reference to what they had to say.

Yet the letter seems to indicate that the real target was in the field of ideas. If this be so, then it is almost inconceivable that anyone could have sat through the program and completed it feeling that it succeeded in any way in its purported effort to "clarify the major issues," "encourage independent thinking," or "present all views."

Senator Taft was barred by a technicality from being represented by a proxy, although the sponsors did permit an unofficial proxy to sit in for General Eisenhower, who is only unofficially a candidate. The Eisenhower representative was emphatic in saying that he had no authority to speak for the absent General, or even to take his place at the discussion.

As for the subject of foreign aid, the audience actually heard only some triflingly different versions of the same broad aspect of this question — the Marshall-Truman-Acheson side of it, echoed through the "me-too" equivocations of the internationalist Republicans.

For the League of Women Voters to permit their own name and reputation to be used in the presentation of this biased and one-sided picture of the issue as being the whole broad subject, pro and con, was most unfortunate.

The woods are full of those who could have given the other side, if the League was really interested in "clarifying the issues" and "presenting all views."

Not only Senator Taft, but General MacArthur, ex-President Hoover, Senator McCarthy, Senator Byrd, and great host of others, could have spotlighted the subject and given a real debate, instead of the shabby and deceptive phony which resulted.

BROWNIES HONOR MOTHERS

Maple Shade Brownie Troop No. 103, had an anniversary party, Saturday. The troop marked its first "birthday" by honoring "Mother". Brownie mothers were invited. They were welcomed by Mrs. Francis Willett, troop leader. Ethel Gentsch read a poem dedicated to mother. Brownie messenger, Louise Zepp, distributed greeting cards to the mothers. The girls, in turn, pinned corsages of white and purple lilacs on their mothers and sang to them. Mrs. Willett showed the comforter, which the girls made during the winter, and announced it will be sent to Brownie Troop 563 of the Children's Heart Hospital. This troop of girls, less fortunate than most troops, was "adopted" by Maple Shade troop. The Maple Shade girls plan to be "big sisters" to them in every way possible.

As a reward for the work the girls have done, leaders will take the troop to a "circus" on May 17 by bus. Refreshments were served by the Brownies.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By "Ken" Brandau
Pinch-Hitting for Joe Elbersson

Several weeks ago the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association made arrangements for Homer Hobbs, Ollie Hobbs and myself to meet Phil Breske, field representative of the Wildlife Management. We spent the entire day making a survey of the flats along the Delaware River to ascertain what possible damage dredging of the river might do to our wildlife feeding and breeding grounds. We interviewed numerous sportsmen in the area and also Ed Halderson, manager of Penn Manor Club, in order to get their views on what could be done to help save as much as possible of the flats and marshlands when the dredging takes place.

Last week I received the following letter from Mr. Breske which is an unbiased opinion on local conditions and what we can do to help conserve our wildlife.

"Mr. Ken Brandau, President
Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association
"Dear Mr. Brandau:

May 6, 1952.

"My visit with you and the Messrs. Hobbs, was a real pleasure; we had a grand day and the company was good.

"Looking at the few remaining waterfowl areas along the Philadelphia-Trenton stretch of the Delaware—the few remaining productive waterfowl areas that may have their days numbered, was the only potential disappointment of the day.

The proposed dredging project of the river means that huge quantities of spoil will have to be dumped. Spoil that tells the story of eroded and scaped uplands, that go back to the very headwaters of the Delaware.

It is quite tempting to go back and think over the history and the changes that have taken place along the Delaware, but I guess we had better stick to the present and the immediate problem. As you have informed me, and from what I have learned from Philadelphia to Trenton, to dredge a channel of this depth means tremendous yardage of spoil to be dumped, and the danger to our waterfowl comes from the fact that the flats and the marshes along the river's shores seem to be the engineering answer to the logical place to dump spoil.

"Little do the general public and the agencies involved in river dredging realize that the areas they consider the dump areas are the lifeblood of our waterfowl population.

"Destroy our local marshes and we destroy our local waterfowl crop. Not only do we lose our local crop of birds, but by destroying attractive food and resting areas, we prevent migrant birds from dropping in and adding to the local scene.

"Drainage and filling have taken a drastic toll of our Atlantic seaboard waterfowl and it is our duty as sportsmen and citizens to prevent the heedless destruction of our natural resources.

"Not only will loss of the local marshes mean that migrant waterfowl will pass straight thru, but the local production of blacks, mallards, woodcocks and a few others will be cut to almost zero. This production of local birds is important to our region.

"Just what can we do to prevent the destruction of our Delaware

River marshes? The problem resolves itself into a matter of compromise—the dredging may be necessary for industrial progress, but the destruction of the flats and marshes is not a necessity! If the agencies involved, the cities, the Army Engineers and organized sportsmen and civic groups, can get together, it is entirely possible that the problem can be solved. True, there must be spoil dumps and at relatively accessible areas. If natural resource interests are to be considered, a complete inventory of flats, marshes and ponds must be made, and plans drawn so that the most productive areas are saved. It may involve a little more cost in haulage of spoil and in initial planning, but the relatively small cost involved, will be offset by the saving of our waterfowl and fishing areas.

"Hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation in general, is a big business, as well as a recreational must for our city dwellers. To destroy our local hunting, fishing and recreational areas, by selfishness or lack of foresight is plain stupidity!

"The recreational values of the Delaware River are as essential as the ore boats that will ply the 40-foot channel. Various interests are going to try to see that the channel becomes a reality and it is just as much, if not a greater responsibility, that the conservation interests see to it that the natural resources of the river are protected. It can be done if each and everyone of us consider it our job.

"No one can do it alone, nor is there any one agency that is going to do the job for you. It is your job and your obligation to find out what you can do to help save your outdoor heritage."

Sincerely yours,

"PHIL" BARSKE

Field Representative

We would appreciate all interested in this worthwhile conservation project attending our meetings to present their views and make suggestions that will help us follow through to a successful conclusion.

Boy takes big carp from Neshaminy Creek . . . . Richard Lloyd, Bristol, R.D. No. 3, took two carp out of the Neshaminy on May 7th at Grundy's corner. One was 34 inches long and weighed 25 pounds; the other was 32 inches long and weighed 22 pounds. Richard is only 17 years old but he is one of the best carp fishermen along the Neshaminy. He gets up at 5:00 a.m., and walks to Grundy's corner so he can get a couple of hours fishing in before he has to go to school. His mother tells me he works for hours making his bait of corn meal—he cooks it until it is like glue; then he makes it half balls about 1 inch round. This is what he was using when he caught these two whoppers, so if any of you carp fishermen want to find out how to catch carp, see Richard. However, you'll have to get up early in the morning.

FIFTH WARD NINE CHALKS UP 2ND WIN OF SEASON

Fifth Ward Sporting Club, defending champion, chalked up its second straight win of the infant season of the Bristol Softball League by shellacking the 3M's nine, 11-2, last evening on Memorial field.

Stan Partyka and Henry Liberatore clouted home runs for the winning aggregation, both coming in the second and both being hit with two runners on base. The second half explosion was good for eight Fifth Ward runs.

The two four-base hits paced the eight hit attack of George Wallace. Liberatore had three for three while Partyka had a single in addition to his home run. However, it was stated that Wallace received loose support.

"Butch" Koreyva again was on the hill for the Warders and allowed the scotch-tape workers but four hits, two of the scratch variety. "Amy" Lewis and "Chuck" Kline got the clean hits off the Fifth Ward twirler while both of Conline's hits would have been put-outs if fielded cleanly. Koreyva struck out seven and walked but one.

The 1951 champions scored eight in the second. Liberatore opened with a hit and after Cordisco flied out, Pahey also hit safely. Partyka's clout went over Lewis' head for a homer. Koreyva and Addeo got on via errors and Vic Cauti walked to fill the bags. Pica got on by an error, two runs scoring. Liberatore's homer accounted for three more runs.

The two Minnesota Mining tallies were scored when George Adams reached base on interference, Conline hit off Koreyva's glove, and Amy Lewis' hit was fumbled in center by Liberatore.

Numbers Runner Is Fined and Sentenced

a lottery and unlawfully maintaining gambling devices, will be not-processed because of lack of sufficient evidence.

Anzalone, who was alone at the time of his arrest, testified he engaged as a numbers runner for about five weeks. He had been laid off as a bartender and his wife expects a baby in July and he was out of a job.

He testified he was sitting in a Trenton bar when some man he didn't know approached him and asked him to drive a car for $65 a week once a day between Bristol and Trenton, N. J.

"My wife," said the World War II veteran, "begged me not to take the job."

"You should have listened to your wife," said Judge Satterthwaite, who said he was sending Anzalone to jail to set an example to other gamblers in Bucks county.

Both Court officials and the State Police expressed skepticism at the Anzalone recital in which he practically "knew nothing."

Trooper Kutney revealed that the numbers slips seized indicated mostly five cent bets to 276 plays.

About 12 or 15 number sheets, paper rolls, and other materials were exhibited by the Commonwealth which were found on Anzalone at the time he was apprehended.

"Didn't you think you were getting pretty good pay for only making one trip daily between Trenton and Bristol?" Judge Satterthwaite asked. "Yes, I did," said Anzalone.

The proposed dredging project of the river means that huge quantities of spoil will have to be dumped. Spoil that tells the story of eroded and scaped uplands, that go back to the very headwaters of the Delaware.

It is quite tempting to go back and think over the history and the changes that have taken place along the Delaware, but I guess we had better stick to the present and the immediate problem. As you have informed me, and from what I have learned from Philadelphia to Trenton, to dredge a channel of this depth means tremendous yardage of spoil to be dumped, and the danger to our waterfowl comes from the fact that the flats and the marshes along the river's shores seem to be the engineering answer to the logical place to dump spoil.

"Little do the general public and the agencies involved in river dredging realize that the areas they consider the dump areas are the lifeblood of our waterfowl population.

"Destroy our local marshes and we destroy our local waterfowl crop. Not only do we lose our local crop of birds, but by destroying attractive food and resting areas, we prevent migrant birds from dropping in and adding to the local scene.

"Drainage and filling have taken a drastic toll of our Atlantic seaboard waterfowl and it is our duty as sportsmen and citizens to prevent the heedless destruction of our natural resources.

"Not only will loss of the local marshes mean that migrant waterfowl will pass straight thru, but the local production of blacks, mallards, woodcocks and a few others will be cut to almost zero. This production of local birds is important to our region.

"Just what can we do to prevent the destruction of our Delaware

LAUDS AUTO STORES' ROLE IN HARDWARE SELLING

(Reprinted from "Automotive Retailer")

KANSAS CITY — Auto supply stores, super drug stores, and variety chain stores lead the nation in hardware selling, leaving conventional hardware operations trailing in the ranks, according to Bruce Burgess, vice-president of the Union Fork & Hoe Company.

These stores lead because of their SUPERIOR MERCHANDISING, said Mr. Burgess, who is merchandising manager of the Columbus, Ohio, company. He spoke during the 63rd annual convention of the Western Retail Implement and Hardware Association here.

In his address, "Key to Stronger Selling," Mr. Burgess told members that successful selling can be attained by the mastery of seven phases of business merchandising, all starting with the letter "P"—people, product, policy, promotion, personnel, public relations, and price.

"Perhaps the most important of these," he said, "is people. Sales personnel should treat them as guests of a store, not as customers. An advertisement in the newspaper is really not an offering to a customer. It is an invitation for the person to visit a store where, it is assured, he will be treated as a guest."
